Mr. Allen W. Dulles, Deputy Director
Central Intelligence Agency
2430 E Street, N. W.
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Allen:

My brother [redacted] is looking for a new connection. On the assumption that the Central Intelligence Agency has need for a wide variety of personnel I am sending you a resume of his experience in the hope it may be of interest to you. He was proficient some time ago in the French and Spanish languages and it would not be difficult for him to brush up on them.

I would appreciate [ ] having the opportunity of an interview at CIA if you think he would be of service to your organization.

[redacted] told me the other day that [redacted] is a consultant to CIA. When I think of the interesting experiences we all had in [redacted] I feel sorry our work had to come to such an unsatisfactory end. I had a very interesting visit with [redacted] and Mr. [redacted] this spring and they, at that time, were hopeful that [redacted] might come back [redacted]. Judging from the recent news from that unfortunate country chances seem poorer than ever.

[redacted] of your organization came in to see me recently and I brought him up to date on what [redacted] had been doing in foreign work.

I hope you can give me some idea about whether or not my brother would be useful to the CIA.

With best regards

Sincerely yours
